HARDING HAS NEW PLAN TO END RAIL STRIKE

LEWIS HOPEFUL OF PEACE SOON IN COAL STRIKE

Negotiations Over Wage Agreement Under Way Between Operators and Unions at Cleveland

COMMITTEE DISCUSSES PLANS TO SUPPLY NORTHWEST WITH COAL

Badger Body Passes Resolutions Appealing to President for Relief

CLEVELAND, O. — By The Associated Press.—Definite program for ending the soft coal strike on a national basis, it was learned here today, will be proposed here Wednesday when operators from all parts of the country are expected to join in conference with the leaders of the striking miners.

Details of the plan for settlement were not disclosed here when the operators and union men met for their first conference, which was scheduled to adjourn until Wednesday to await new arrivals among the operators. The plan, it was said had the approval of enough operators to insure settlement of the coal strike.

CLEVELAND, O.—By the Associated Press.—Action toward breaking the nation-wide coal strike in the bituminous fields was under consideration of union leaders and coal operators, who began a series of conferences here today in the expectation of reaching a wage agreement. Little progress was expected from the opening meetings, both sides joining in an opening conference and then dividing into two groups to organize for further joint conferences.

While only operators of the central competitive field had been invited to the conference might later be extended. Lewis of the miners, indicated that the conference might later be extended to include operators from the outlying fields, where some have signified a willingness to settle the wage dispute that brought a general suspension of work in the coal industry more than four months ago. Mr. Lewis said he was "optimistic over the possible results," and held out the hope of an early return to work by soft coal miners.

To Invite Absent Operators

CLEVELAND, O.—By the Associated Press.—Coal operators and union leaders, who met here Monday for a wage conference looking toward ending the soft coal strike, had virtually agreed to ask all absent operators, particularly those of Illinois and Indiana to join in the conference here on Wednesday. Operators in other states also will probably be asked to attend for the purpose of reaching wage agreements.

Formal decision to delay any action on the part of the conferees now here was scheduled to be taken this afternoon at the first joint conference of the miners and operators.

KLEINERTZ CITED TO APPEAR BEFORE SHELBY TOWN BOARD

Proprietor of Country Club Resort Must Tell About "Bill" Chamberlain Disturbance

CLAIMS HIS PLACE WAS NOT OPEN AFTER ELEVEN O'CLOCK

Starts Action to Have "Wild Bill" Keep the Peace

Frank Kleinertz, proprietor of the Country Club on the Mormon Coulee road, has been cited to appear before the Shelby town board Tuesday night and defend himself against the charge that his place was open after 11 o'clock last Thursday night, when "Wild Bill" Chamberlain smashed some of the furniture, heaved a beer glass and injured his former wife and created a reign of terror, it is claimed, in the resort. This was the night when Dolly Quinn, supposed to be in jail serving a thirty-day sentence, was among those present.

Taking cognizance of the demand for him to appear before the town board, Mr. Kleinertz today started an action to have Mr. Chamberlain placed under bonds to keep the peace and also delivered a signed statement at the Tribune office denying that his place was open after 11 o'clock last Thursday night and blaming Chamberlain for all the disturbances which have occurred in his Country Club. On three other occasions, Mr. Kleinertz alleges, "Wild Bill" has "started something" in his place.

The Kleinertz communication follows:

"Editor Tribune:

"I want to call your attention to inaccuracies in the account of the mob attack upon my place of business which was led and directed by the notorious "Wild Bill" Chamberlain.

"In the first place, the statement that it was after closing time was wrong. He arrived with a gang of fellow roughnecks at 10:15 o'clock.

"By 11 o'clock p. m. he had already broken furniture, nearly killed his former wife, knocked down another woman with his fist, been driven from the place at the point of a gun held by me, and I was at the La Crosse police station reporting the outrage.

"We people in the town of Shelby are trying to do business under the rulings of the town board. Everything is peaceful and tranquil until some hoodlum from the city comes in. There has never been a bit of trouble connected with my place excepting this and three other occasions when Chamberlain came out. Every employe of mine has instructions not to sell him anything. I don't want him in the place and I think this is true of other places on the country roads.

"He runs a place in the city that has a rotten reputation for miles and he doesn't even dignify it by having a city soft drink license. How he 'geth away with it' is beyond the imagination of even those who are 'in the know' on what goes on in La Crosse.

"As I have said, he has thrice before visited my place for the sole purpose of causing a disturbance. On these trips—afraid to fight singly and in the open—he has gone outside and hurled rocks through the windows.

"I want it understood that I am trying to conduct a business legally and in accordance with the orders of the town board of Shelby but it is indeed a hard task while men like "Wild Bill" Chamberlain are permitted to break moral and statute laws and 'get away with it.'

"Knowing that out of fairness you will give me space for my side of the affair, I am,

"Respectfully yours,

"FRANK C. KLEINERTZ."

DR. ANDERSON STILL SEES PLACE FOR CARNIVAL BUTTONS IN THE CORNERSTONE OF UNION DEPOT

THE FUND for the tornado sufferers in the northern part of the state has been increased $25 by a contribution from Dr. W. A. Anderson, former mayor, who is spending the summer at Portland, Maine. In a letter to John C. Burns in which he enclosed a check for the tornado fund, Mr. Anderson also extends his congratulations to Messrs. McConnell and Woods, the Chamber of Commerce and others who aided in the fight to get a union station for the city. Dr. Anderson's letter follows:

"The Preble House, Portland, Maine.
"July 31, 1922.

"Mr. John C. Burns,
"La Crosse, Wis.
"Dear John:

"I have just seen in The Tribune the decision of the railroad commission in favor of the UNION STATION. I want to congratulate McConnell, Woods, the Chamber of Commerce and all citizens favoring a sane, progressive city.

"Also, wishing to celebrate a little on my own account I can think of no better way, at this distance, than to enclose a small contribution for the sufferers from that cyclone a few weeks ago in the northern part of the state. Please make the enclosed check payable to the local treasurer of any fund raised for the relief of those people, and oblige

"Yours sincerely,
"WENDELL A. ANDERSON."

"There may be a place for that Carnival Button in the cornerstone after all."

In January, 1921, Dr. Anderson asked for the privilege and honor of buying the first Winter Sports Carnival button, when the buttons were placed on sale as he declared he wanted to keep it as a souvenir and place it in the cornerstone of the new union station, whenever the city got a station.

Dr. Anderson's check for $25 for the tornado fund was sent by John C. Burns to Ole Lunde, county treasurer, and treasurer of the tornado fund. On July 29 Mr. Lunde sent a check for $127.50 to the state treasurer, which amount represented the total contribution so far received. This amount, however, did not include Dr. Anderson's contribution.

FRENCH PRETENDER SOUGHT BY POLICE ON BIGAMY CHARGE

Prince Louis Henri De Bourbon Believed to be Factory Hand from Connecticut

DISAPPEARS FROM APARTMENT IN NEW YORK ON SATURDAY

Four Women Believed to Have Been Married to "Prince"

BOSTON, Mass. — "Prince Louis Henri De Bourbon," who left a glittering Russian uniform behind in his New York apartment when the police went there to find out whether he was not in fact Harold Schwarm, a New Britain, Conn., factory hand, was being sought Monday by Boston police officers on suspicion of bigamy. Officers were at work checking up reports that four women had been married to the man at various times in a career that included a job as a dishwasher at the Taunton Insane hospital.

The first wife was said to be Miss Ethel A. Betz of New Britain, Conn., whom the "baron" is alleged to have married in Hartford in 1918 and the second wife, Miss Catherine Lynn of this city, a department store cashier. The third is reported to have been a nurse in the Taunton Insane hospital, and the fourth a Brooklyn, N. Y. girl, who was employed in the Metropolitan hospital on Welfare Island.

Disappears Saturday

NEW YORK.—Prince Louis Henri De Chateroi de Bourbon as West 96th street knew him for a few scintillant days, now sought in Boston on suspicion of bigamy, achieved the pinnacle of his fame in New York last week when, attired in all the splendor of his Russian uniform, he got himself arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct. He was released later.

The pretender to the French throne disappeared Saturday pausing only to take an Italian wolf hound, which he described as a present from the pope, after a detective had visited him to inquire whether it were true as was reported, that he was Harold Schwarm, of New Britain, Conn.

A few hours later, the princess, described by her spouse as a prominent society girl, also dropped out of the picture, leaving behind in the apartment only Joe Terry, an exsailor, who had acted as secretary to his highness, and Cheeto, the prince's royal monkey.

FOUR TRAINS ARE DISCONTINUED BY GREEN BAY ROAD

MADISON, Wis.—The railroad commission was advised late Saturday that four trains on the Green Bay & Western railroad were to be discontinued, effective Sunday. Number 3 and 4 running between Wisconsin Rapids and Green Bay and Number 5 and 6 between Merrilan and Winona, Minn., were taken off. The discontinuance of the trains was said to be due to the shortage of coal on the line.

PEDESTRIAN ON WRONG SIDE OF ROAD; KILLED

GREEN BAY, Wis.—Gilbert Athey, 42, town of Howard, was run over and killed late Sunday night, as he was walking home along the Duck creek road. Edward Tilley, driver of the car, which ran over Athey, was not held as Athey was said to have been walking on the wrong side of the road.

NEXT YEAR'S AUTO LICENSE PLATES YELLOW AND BLACK

Auto license plates for Wisconsin in 1923 will be painted a light yellow with black figures.

Secretary of State Elmer S. Hall made this announcement Saturday after arranging for next year's supply of approximately 375,000 plates. They will be stamped out at the penitentiary at Waupun, and will be the same size as this year's. They will cost between 11 and 12 cents each.

The background color is a bit darker and more henna-colored than buff. It might be said to resemble "gold" with the glint taken out. The color was selected because the black figures against it will be distinct, and because the color will not dazzle in the sun.

SMOOT DENIES HE PROPOSED CUT IN CUBAN SUGAR CROP

Presents Statement from Cuban President that No Such Proposal Had Been Received

AMENDMENTS TO TARIFF TO BE DISPOSED OF DURING THE WEEK

Agreement to Speed up Consideration of Bill in Effect Today

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Denying charges that he had proposed curtailment of the Cuban sugar crop to 2,500,00 tons this year in return for a reduced tariff on sugar, Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, read Monday to the senate a statement from the president of Cuba that no proposal for a limitation of the crop had come from American government officials.

Senator Smoot declared that the proposition to keep the Cuban crop to 2,500,000 tons had come from Cuba and had been deemed to be in the interest of the producers in that country. He charged at the time that he wrote his much discussed letter to Major General Crowder at Havana, last January, there was a plan to dump 1,200,000 tons of Cuban sugar on the American market and that conditions in the beet sugar industry were such that this would have resulted in the complete destruction of the domestic industry.

The Utah senator attacked American sugar refiners, who, he charged, sought destruction of the American industry.

An agreement under which amendments to the more important sections of the tariff bill are to be disposed of before the close of the week was in effect when the senate settled down to its job again. Although it had been found impossible in the struggle last week to formulate a successful program for fixing a definite date for disposing of the bill itself, the agreement finally evolved Saturday, it was hoped, would expedite matters so a final vote could be had before September 1.

The agreement to get the more important items still in dispute cleaned up this week, so far as amendments are concerned, came during debate on the sugar schedule. It will serve to curtail discussion on many points and was worked out by several hours of conference between majority and minority representatives.

BADGER UTILITIES TO GET COAL UNDER PRIORITY ORDERS

MADISON, Wis.—The railroad commission has been advised that priorities have been granted by railroads for the moving of 20,000 tons of coal to the Reiss Coal company, Sheboygan, to supply the needs of the Wisconsin Public Service company plants in Green Bay, Manitowoc, Sheboygan, and Oshkosh. The coal is being hauled from Kentucky.

The fuel commission met again this morning to consider various requests for priorities.

Reports have commenced coming into the fuel commission saying that dealers and farmers were raising the price of wood, which is being used in place of coal. One report said that wood had risen two dollars on a ton. No action as yet has been taken by the commission.

All the allied delegates, including Baron Hayashi, representing Japan, arrived in Downing street shortly before 11 o'clock and went immediately to the conference chamber. The United Etates was not represented.

SUGGESTS MEN GO BACK TO WORK AND LEAVE SENIORITY QUESTION TO RAIL BOARD

President Calls on Railroads to Receive Strikers When They Return to Work and Leave Disputes to Federal Board; Drastic Action Planned if Week Fails to Bring Peace

WASHINGTON.—The trio of striking railroad shop craft leaders here in Washington—B. M. Jewell, general strike leader; William H. Johnston, of the machinists, and J. P. Noonan of the electrical workers—went into conference this afternoon on President Harding's new strike settlement proposal. There are intimations that the proposal had not made a favorable first impression upon them.

WASHINGTON.—President Harding Monday called upon striking railroad shopmen to return to work, requested railroads to assign them to work and asked both the workmen and carriers to submit the disputed question of seniority to the railroad labor board.

The president sent a telegram to B. M. Jewell, head of the railroad shopmen's union, and T. De Witt Cuyler, chairman of the Association of Railway Executives, outlining the plan which he hoped would result in speedy termination of the strike.

The further statement was made by the president that he was "mindful of the pledge of both the executives and the striking workmen to recognize the validity of all decisions by the railroad labor board." He also pointed out that the question of seniority, "which the executives rejected," outlined recently in a settlement proposed by him, "remains in dispute and bars a settlement."

Meets Strike Leaders

The president's telegrams were made public at the white house at one o'clock after the executives had held another conference with Mr. Jewell and other strike leaders and with Chairman Cummins of the senate interstate commerce committee, who has been in contact with the railroad executives.

The statement was authoritatively made at the white house that the call issued by the president that Mr. Harding regarded his proposals as a final proposal from the government for voluntary action by the railroads and employes to end the menace to the country's interests which the administration sees in the paralysis of transportation, particularly in coal fields. The proposals today were made without consultation with railroad executives and the president does not know what will be the attitude of the labor unions, it was added.

Must Settle Through Board

Settlement through the railroad labor board, the president was said to believe, is the only practical course for the government to seek. The president, it was added, considers the suggestions just made as presenting the judgment of one who has been standing in between the parties to the controversy.

The president, it was stated, trusts the new proposal will draw the support of the public opinion and will bring about a speedy ending of the strike now in its sixth week.

U. S. May Seize Roads

It is reported in government circles that, unless the coming week brings substantial improvement in the coal and rail situations, the administration will move promptly along the following lines:

Coal strike—Take over the large key mines in the unionized bituminous fields, place them under heavy military guard as a precaution against disorder, and call upon the miners, whether union or non-union, to return to work as employes of the government pending the settlement of the strike.

Rail strike—Assume control of roads, particularly those in the coal producing regions, whenever it becomes apparent that as a result of the shopmen's strike they are unable to properly serve the public.

The administration faces the next week with conditions far worse than they have been at any time since the twin strikes began and with prospects for settlement admittedly offering little encouragement.

One More Chance

In line with its policy of exhausting every possible means of adjustment before resorting to drastic action, the government, however, is willing to give both sides one more chance to get together.

Rail Executives Meet

NEW YORK.—Railroad executives Monday evinced keen interest in the dispatches outlining President Harding's latest proposal for settlement of the nation-wide rail strike, but asserted no communication had been received from the White House up to 2:30 p. m.

At the same time announcement was made that Chairman Loree of the eastern presidents' conference, had called a meeting for 4 p. m., to discuss the strike situation. The announcement did not mention Monday's conference in Washington but it was generally believed that consideration would be given the administration's plan.

T. De Witt Cuyler, head of the association of railway executives, to whom the president's message was addressed, was not in his office. It

SIXTH WEEK FINDS STRIKE SITUATION IN LA CROSSE SAME

Statement Issued by Shopcrafts Employes Explaining Stand on Decisions

MAIN BODY OF STRIKERS "SITTING TIGHT" THEY SAY

Figures Submitted in Statement Issued for the Public

THERE HAS BEEN little or no change in the local railroad strike situation during the past few days. The men are entering the sixth week of voluntary idleness with the same determination to stick it out that was displayed during the first two days. A few cases of men going back to work have been reported here, but the main body of the strikers are still "sitting tight." The only work being done in the shops is that which is absolutely necessary to keep trains in operation, and that for the most part, is being done by employes of the "official" class.

The following is the text of a bulletin sent out by the shopcraft employes, explaining to the public why they would not accept a decision which they considered unjust, preferring rather to quit work:

Increase in passenger rates, freight rates, Pullman rates and Pullman surcharge rates were granted to the railroads by the interstate commerce commission, and these increases were put on the traveling public.

On July 1st, 1921, the United States labor board decision No. 147 reduced the railroad employes' wages 12 per cent. Did the public get any part of this reduction? No! No!

On August 16, 1921, the United States railroad labor board in decision 222, reduced the shopcraft employes a further reduction of 10 per cent. Did the traveling public receive any part of this reduction? No! No!

On July 1st, 1922, the United States labor board in decision No. 1036, again reduced the shopcraft employes a further reduction of 12 per cent. A total reduction of 34 per cent in their wages within one year.

Ask yourself the following questions:

1. Have the passenger rates been reduced 34 per cent?
2. Have the freight rates been reduced 34 per cent?
3. Have the high salaries of railroad officials been reduced 34 per cent?
4. Has the price of rent been reduced 34 per cent?
5. Have the taxes been reduced 34 per cent?
6. Has the street car fare been reduced 34 per cent?
7. Has flour been reduced 34 per cent?
8. Has your gas been reduced 34 per cent?
9. Has your electric light bill been reduced 34 per cent?
10. Did you ever read a decision that the salary of the labor board has been reduced 34 per cent? They only receive $10,000.00 each per year, $36 per day, or $6.00 per hour, and the railway employe helps pay this board that cut the wages of one class of employes to 28 cents per hour.

Do you know that during the last six months of 1921 the total pay roll slash, including the lay-offs, was running at the annual rate of (one

LEAGUE OF NATIONS ENDORSED BY WOMAN SENATE CANDIDATE

Says U. S. Lost Chance to Give Peace to the World by Staying Out

MRS. HOOPER OPENS CAMPAIGN WITH SUNDAY TALK AT OSHKOSH

Acceptance of League Would Have Averted Much Trouble

OSHKOSH, Wis.—The league of nations was unequivocally endorsed by Mrs. Ben Hooper, Oshkosh, Wis., democratic candidate for the senate from Wisconsin, in an address here Sunday in which she said that had the United States gone into the league without reservations, it could have put itself in a position to command permanent world peace.

Mrs. Hooper declared that as soon as the United States asked for reservations in the league it put itself on the same basis with other nations and consequently lost the great opportunity to give peace to the world. There was no danger in joining the covenant she said.

Three-fourths of the trouble that has taken place in Europe could have been avoided, had the United States senate ratified the Versailles treaty and league of nations without reservations, said Mrs. Hooper. The trouble arose when a small group of senators, bitter in their feeling toward former President Wilson, put the covenant into party politics, Mrs. Hooper charged.

No one can blame President Harding, Mrs. Hooper continued, for promising to do one of two things, either to go into the league of nations with reservations or form an association of nations, because of practically insurmountable obstacles."

In order to have permanent world peace, Mrs. Hooper said, a world court founded and governed by fixed and definite principles of international law that will satisfy the conscience and command the respect of all nations and peoples must be formed. Behind this court, she added, must be a league or an association to enforce the decisions of the court. Mrs. Hooper said that the all-important question of today is how to prevent war. "If another great war starts, we will be in it. If we are to keep out of war, we must be in a position to help prevent the beginning of war anywhere."

THE BAVARIAN QUESTION

(By FRANK H. SIMONDS.)

WASHINGTON.—The rapid passing of the Bavarian crisis, which was for a moment advertised as threatening the unity of the German reich, should excite very little surprise in the world at large. The differences between Bavaria—and Prussia antedate the war, but strong as are those differences, the economic interests which bind them to Prussia are far stronger.

For the French, perhaps for Europe, it would be a happy solution of present problems if the South German states should break away from Berlin and, perhaps in conjunction with Austria form a new confederation. Such a possibility has always lain in the back of French minds and no criticism of allied policy heard in Paris has been more frequent than that which alleged that the allies had strengthened not weakened the unity of the German reich. But one may recall that on the outbreak of the Franco-Prussian war Napoleon II was confident of the aid of the South German states and of the Hapsburg monarchy as well, yet these states marched with Prussia while Austria preserved a neutrality which was totally unexpected at Paris.

The formation of the German empire, following the German victories at Sedan and before Metz put an end for the time being to that historic French policy which had aimed at dividing the German states and, in alliance with Saxony or with Bavaria, fighting Prussia or Austria. Certainly Bavaria and her neighbors went with a degree of reluctance to the Hall of Mirrors at Versailles, where William I was acclaimed and where, later, the treaty of Versailles would be proclaimed, but the community of material interests which made the union possible was strengthened with each succeeding year between 1871 and 1914.

But if for nearly half a century South Germany protested against the Prussian militarism, the old circumstance is that today the break between Bavaria and the present central German government grows out of the fact that Bavaria has become the headquarters of reaction and of militarism, and Munich, not Berlin, the center of all plots for the restoration of the monarch to be ruled, to be sure, by a Wittelsback, not a Hohenzollern, that is by a member of the royal house of Bavaria, not of Prussia.

This reaction, however, aims before all else at restoring the former greatness of Germany and nothing could more completely defeat this object than the separation of the old empire into the component states. Moreover, while Bavaria is obviously in a rebellious mood there is little to suggest that either Baden or Wurtemburg are prepared to follow their larger neighbor out of the German home.

Certain fundamental differences separate North Germany from South. The north is industrial and, in the main, save for the Rhineland, Protestant, the south is agrarian and Catholic. Latin, and particularly French, influence has been felt strongly in the law and life of populations. Yet half a century of common life with the German empire and the recollection of the humiliations and sufferings of the remoter past have served to do much to obliterate the separatist sentiment, while there is, of course, a socialist party and a labor element, which politically advocate remaining within the republic and support the republic itself.

Bavaria had an experience with a socialist government immediately after the close of the war, which terminated after the murder of Kurt Eisner. A reaction something like that in Hungary followed and from that time onward Bavaria has been the center of resistance to radicalism and the asylum for all the foes of the German republic.

It is essential to remember, however, that Bavaria has also been the center of resistance to the treaty of Versailles and that the gravest refusals to comply with the disarmament clauses of that treaty have come from this quarter.

What Bavarian leaders are actually seeking to bring about, it would seem, is a restoration of the old German empire with a Wittelsback on the throne. To do this they are steadily fostering the impression that Bavaria is the center of national spirit and of national resistance to allied and particularly to French demands. This is by no means the first time that Bavaria has defied the republic and the last incident was a point blank refusal to comply with allied requirements in the matter of armed forces, which nearly brought Germany into collision with her conquerors.

In the present case it is a resistance to laws passed as a consequence of the assassination of Dr. Rathenau and intended to protect republican officials. That the assassination was approved in Munich seems evident from recent events, and a visit of President Ebert to the Bavarian capital a few weeks ago called for an astonishing display of dislike and even contempt for the republic and its nominal head.

But to believe that Bavaria is now contemplating secession, is difficult. A time might come when the actual success of the German republic might lead a monarchy-loving Bavaria to go its way, provided Baden and Wurtemburg would follow. But today the play is rather for leadership within Germany and for the position as the defender of German greatness. Bavaria, hoping to give a new German empire a monarch and a dynasty, is working for a restoration of monarchy not for the destruction of German unity and a separate and necessarily circumscribed position, herself.

Once Bavaria and the South German states separated from Prussia, they would have to look to France to defend them and would be reduced to the state they occupied as members of Napoleon's Rhine confederation. And nowhere in Germany today is the religion of hate for France more generally or violently preached than in Munich.

If the republic is presently overthrown, the initial impulse will probably come from Bavaria, but underlying any such attempt must be the will to restore German greatness and that greatness is inevitably founded upon the unity created by Bismarck as a consequence of the successful war made upon France in 1870.

Cocoanut Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply put two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified in a cup or glass with a little warm water, then moisten your hair with water and rub it in. It will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.

Power Farming and Petroleum Products

LABOR and power represent 80 to 90 per cent of the total cost of producing farm products.

This portion of the cost is reduced by the use of motor-driver machinery which enables each man to cultivate more acres and to cultivate each acre more cheaply.

The following figures, made on authority of the International Harvester Company prove the correctness of this statement.

1921 COSTS—DISCING

Double Discing (8-ft. disc) with horses—15 miles travel per day, costs 85c per acre.

Double Discing (8-ft. disc) with 10-20 tractor—20 miles travel per day costs 66c per acre. (A saving of 22.3%).

1921 COSTS—DRILLING

Drilling with horses—15 miles travel per day; costs 53c per acre.

Drilling with 10-20 tractor—25 miles travel per day; costs 26c per acre. (A saving of 51%).

1921 COSTS—HARVESTING

4 horses with an 8-ft. grain binder can harvest an average of 15 acres a day at 65c an acre.

1 kerosene tractor with 2 8-ft. binders can harvest an average of 40 acres a day at 50c an acre. (A saving of 23%).

The increasing use of motor-driven machinery on the farm indicates that the practical farmer has come to realize that the use of such equipment is profitable.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) in its endeavor to furnish a complete cycle of service is delivering its products to the farmer under the same conditions as for similar deliveries in the town.

Such service is possible only because of the complete system of distribution which has been developed throughout the 11 Middle Western States served by this Company.

Only a great enterprise, permanently organized, adequately financed, and inspired by a high sense of its social responsibilities could guarantee the farmer, and all those who consume farm products, that all essential needs for petroleum products will be cared for.

MAN BELIEVETH

For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness; and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation.—John 1: 13.

Poincare's Burden

EUROPE is having another of her conferences. Poincare and Lloyd George with Italian and Belgian leaders as flankers, are meeting in London. It is the same old conference that has met and broken up a dozen times since the signing of the peace, the conference over what shall be done to heal the festering sore the war has left in the midst of Europe. And it meets with no better auspices for its success than those which have gone before and proved chiefly futile. For, as in previous meetings, it seems a foregone conclusion that the re-adjustment of reparations to a really sane basis will not be possible. And the reparations business is the focus of the virulent infection which keeps the sore of Europe running.

One might think, with the collapse of Germany visibly approaching, as practically all observers agree, there would be less obstruction in the way of reparation re-adjustment than heretofore. It seems to be just about proved by the event that Germany cannot pay what is demanded of her. But the last act of Premier Poincare before leaving Paris for London was to set in motion the "penalties" which France has been threatening against Germany for nonpayment. It could hardly be construed otherwise than as a definite notice to the other allies that the French insistence upon the letter of the reparations agreements remains as strong as ever. It is evidently intended as assurance that so far as France is concerned the ruin of Germany is a result that she is willing to accept.

That Lloyd George will endeavor to change this attitude is a foregone conclusion. He has done much, since he went with the chauvinists at Versailles, to redeem that error and bring the allies back to a reasonable attitude. He has been able to exert some influence on Briand, and before that on Clemenceau, in the direction of reducing the burden imposed on the defeated enemy. He has won public opinion in England from bitterness against Germany to a real desire to see her restored for the better balance of Europe. But he has signally failed, so far, to move Poincare. The present French premier stands like a rock in his determination upon the humiliation of Germany.

It is a situation with little hope in it for lovers of peace. Possibilities include a return of Germany, in desperation, to monarchism, or a swing to the other direction of bolshevism and chaos. The final rupture of the entente, with a resumption of the age-long hostility between England and France, is not a remote contingency. On every hand loom signs of the preparation of a new and more deadly paroxysm in Europe, unless adjustment can be reached. It is a heavy responsibility that Poincare is carrying into the conference at London.

Scouts

A TRAIN with a number of Boy Scouts, returning from their summer camp, crashed into a local standing on a siding near Sulphur Springs, Mo. The local, made of wooden cars, was splintered by the heavier steel express train and thrown over an embankment into a steep ravine. Between forty and fifty were killed, and scores more were injured, including many of the scouts. Yet in the wreck scout training proved itself. For the uninjured lads turned to like veterans with the knowledge of first aid and the self-reliant courage that scouting teaches. Said dispatches:

> A few Boy Scouts who miraculously escaped rushed to the aid of the injured, and worked frantically to assist their less fortunate companions.
>
> Innumerable Boy Scout kits, grabbed here and there along the right of way and from debris, were in some instances used on their owners, or to aid in releasing them from their perilous position.
>
> Bandages and tissue were in some cases smeared with blood, resulting from wounds of the crash, but were used in the emergency.
> The heavy Boy Scout belts and knapsack straps were converted into tourniquets on a few injured, while the khaki scout coats and pup tents were pressed into use according to the scout manual as stretchers, pending the arrival of ambulances and the relief train.

In times of emergency most of us, who live tranquil and uneventful lives, are only in the way. We don't know what to do, and we get too rattled to do it even if we knew. Contrast that experience with the way the scouts turned to in that railroad wreck. It is safe to say that every scout was, until the relief train arrived, worth two of the average passengers in the wreck, because he knew what to do and had been trained to keep his head. Children they were, between 11 and 17 years of age. But they were better than an equal number of men.

Scouting pays. Emergencies demonstrate it spectacularly, but the same resources which make scouts stand out in emergencies stay with them for life and are useful everywhere and all the time. It is a fine equipment for a boy.

Keeping Cool

TO AVOID sunstroke, keep in a breeze. This advice is from the medical editor of the London Times. He says that heat stroke is rare in well-ventilated or windy places, no matter how hot. The old idea was that "gettin' overcome by the heat" was due to temperature of the air. European physicians are swinging to the belief that heat prostrations and most hot weather discomfiture are due more to stuffy air than to actual heat. People instinctively know this. Unconsciously, on a hot day, you seek a position in a breeze or draft. Mechanically, this is the same as the fan which cools an auto engine. Circulating air is the antidote for heat, though too powerful a breeze—such as created artificially by an electric fan—is apt to cause stiff necks or colds.

The principle, that ventilation counteracts heat, applies also to clothing. That's why women suffer less than men, in hot weather.

In the Malay jungles, natives wear an under-vest made of bamboo the thickness of a pencil lead. The bamboo is cut into half-inch lengths and strung on cord in the formation of a fish net. The meshes or holes make cooling air pockets under the outer clothes.

Why do you wear heavy garments in winter? Your answer probably is, "To keep out the cold." But the real effect of woolen underwear or a sealskin coat is to prevent the heat generated in our bodies from escaping into the cold air. Put a hot substance with a cold substance and the heat flows into the cold until the temperature of the two is nearly equalized. This happens in your refrigerator, heat flows out of warm food and melts the ice. That's how food cools—by losing a lot of its stored-up heat. The same principle works in summer when porous clothing permits the escape of the body's heat into the air. The body's heat flows out into the air or into a cold bath, like water through a pipe or electrically over a wire. When the atmosphere is saturated with water, the evaporation of perspiration is checked, there being no dry air to absorb it like water into a wet sponge. Hence the saying, "I wouldn't mind the heat if it wasn't for the humidity." Misery also comes when escape of the body's heat is prevented by the atmosphere being still hotter.

The Poacher

By LILY WANDEL

Lucile had fallen in love with Reggie Devereau. He had asked her to marry him and she had accepted him but she was not happy at all. Reggie did not measure up to the man of her dreams—the man she had expected to fall in love with—and once again, she felt, had her emotions ruled her rather rather than her mind. It irritated her to think, she had been so weak when her reasoning powers told her plainly that a marriage with Reggie would be a fiasco.

In the first place, Reggie was one of those nice, mild young men who are switched over to anybody's opinion and whose tact and good nature borders on weakness of character. In the second place, Lucille's entire family, and it was a long rambling one, was waiting for just such a man to lean upon. There was a whole string of old aunts and uncles and second cousins who were looking for a free boarding house in which to end their days; numerous young nephews out of luck, ready to welcome an uncle who would be easy to 'touch,'' a half dozen young, pretty nieces who wished earnestly to study music or something and had no funds. They flattered Reggie, catered to him and filled the parlor the evening he came to call on Lucille. The latter watched keenly for the slightest sign of masterfulness in Reggie, the least indication to assert himself, but she looked in vain.

Then Jim Burns came to town, opened a sporting goods store and took the populace by storm. At a church social Lucille met him and was fascinated. He was just the direct opposite of Reggie; he made it known at once that he "wouldn't stand for any nonsense," everybody had to give in to him, he was not a man to back down from the slightest opinion that he might express. He was a big, fine looking fellow, and his masterfulness was like a magnet. It also attracted Lucille. She never forgot the first night he called.

The parlor was filled as usual, a line of aunts and cousins beaming with welcome and sweetness and a couple of flapper-pieces at the piano twinkling alternately with coyness and fascinating pertness. In five minutes the room was empty except for Lucille and Jim. "I don't stand for any nonsense, you know," he had smiled in his tyrannical way.

After that when he called the parlor was always empty before he arrived. Lucille adored him—he was so masterful in the smallest thing. Things went his way or stood still. It was delightful to see the family put firmly in its place, to be no longer bothered with innumerable "hangers on" wherever one went.

A couple of times when Reggie called Lucille was "out," and when she did receive him he only looked at her with big, reproachful, doggy eyes but never said a word about Jim's calls. If Lucille pitied Reggie it was a pity that bordered on contempt. Nevertheless, she realized that things could not go on forever this way—she would have to make a decision between the two. It was peculiar that as much as she admired Jim she had not the heart to tell Reggie she was through with him. Her reasoning told her that it was the only proper thing to do, that Jim was the right man for her, yet the memory of many tender moments with Reggie kept her wavering. She was positive that if she had Jim at her side facing Reggie she would be capable of making her choice, would have the strength to tell Reggie to go.

Then again in a gentle mood, her heart swayed toward the even good-natured Reggie, and she felt the she was not giving him a square deal. She tried to reason it out, look at the future in a cool, practical manner weigh everything carefully. Invariably the balance was decidedly in the favor of Jim. But she had not the courage to tell poor Reggie.

Then one night after sleepless hours an idea suggested itself. She wondered that she had not thought of that solution sooner and saved herself these days of indecision and worry. She would let Jim settle the whole affair. She would invite the two young men for the same evening, but neither would know that the other was coming, and Jim, who would not stand for any nonsense, would soon settle the affair.

The very next morning Lucille telephoned Jim to come up that evening, and he answered in his usual authoritative way that it had been his intention and he would be there early.

Then she called up Reggie. He was delighted to hear her voice; he thanked her humbly for calling him, but he did not know what to say about coming. "Do you really want me, Lucille?" anxiously.

"Why, of course, Reggie, otherwise I wouldn't have asked you," she spoke very sweetly.

"Lucille! Darling, you make me very happy. I'll be there."

Jim arrived first. Disposing of his hat, he linked his arm through Lucille's and led her straight to a davenport, and, once seated, he kissed her.

"Jim!" said Lucille reproachfully but pleased.

"Look here, honey girl, you and I had better come to an understanding," he said. "There's that little shrimp Reggie Devereau hanging around here and you know I won't stand for any nonsense!"

"When I want a thing, no matter how small, I always get it, and when I've found the girl I love, well—a little thing like Reggie won't stand in my way, that's all—and he might as well know, sooner or later, that I don't stand for any nonsense."

Lucille drew in her breath. Reggie might come any minute, poor Reggie. And hardly had she thought of him when the door bell rang.

The portieres parted and Reggie came breezily into the room. "Hello"—and stopped a second when he saw Jim settled with Lucille on the davenport. Lucille jumped up and extended a friendly hand. "Hello, Reggie," kindly. "Won't you sit down?"

"Hello, Reggie!" called Jim patronizingly, getting slowly to his feet.

"Good evening," answered Reggie stiffly, ill at ease, a wrinkle lining his usually smooth forehead; "what are you doing here?"

Jim burst into a laugh and Lucille looked at Reggie in genuine surprise. "What am I doing here?" echoed Jim highly amused and burst into another big boom of laughter. Lucille giggled nervously, she felt uncomfortable. The line in Reggie's forehead was deepening.

Jim's laughter died out at last and he turned suddenly to the other young man; this time, there was no hint of amusement in his voice, but that masterful, compelling note that Lucille adored, "That's none of your business, Reggie Devereau! Now, young fellow, I'll tell you something. I don't stand for any nonsense, so——"

Reggie came forward like a menacing wolf and the bear stepped back. "I know you don't stand for any nonsense, Jim Burns, that's where we two differ. I stand for all the nonsense in the world. I'm the most good-natured fellow you want to meet, but when it comes to the serious things of life, the big things, that's when my good nature stops. I won't stand for a poacher; get that?"

Jim eyes blazed. "A poacher! Who's a poacher?"

"You! You knew Lucille and I were engaged. Poaching is a serious offense and——"

"Look here"—Jim faltly hollowed—"you have nothing to say about this. It's up to Lucille, she can decide," and he smiled gloatingly.

"Not a word, Lucille," commanded Reggie peremptorily. "Lucille decided a long time ago. If she is wavering now, I'll decide it for her. Now, sir, you get out!"

Jim looked at Lucille, her eyes were fastened on Reggie in breathless amazement, and perhaps he realized that this was not any nonsense, for without a word he stalked out of the house.

OUT OUR WAY BY WILLIAMS

ENTER THE FLAPPER

ADVENTURE LOOMS IN WAKE OF AUTO BREAKDOWN

By ZOE BECKLEY

They had reached the Sound where the road ran along a ridge with frequent grassy gullies running down to the broken shore.

The gullies offered romantic seclusion, the breeze murmured caressingly and the smooth whir of the wheels on the road was in itself a restful thing.

Suddenly there came a click, a grating sound in the car's internals and the big gray machine slowed—stopped.

"What's up!" The shout came from all but Peggy.

"Hanged if I know!" Bobby was already climbing out. He lifted the hood of the car.

The crowd was silent at first as they waited for Bob to report it wasn't anything serious and resume driving. But when, after a long search in the engine, he was still at a loss to find the trouble, anxious queries began.

Bobby stripped off his coat and all but disappeared underneath the car. Presently he emerged, brushing himself off in a baffled way.

Ted Harker got out and tried to help. Ted was studying mechanical engineering.

The others gathered about the two young men—Olive close at Bobby's shoulder.

Peggy alone seemed not to care, as she stood apart and looked on with a faintly amused smile. So absorbed was she that she failed to notice the sidelong study of herself by Duncan Lee.

His scrutiny, subtle as it was, should have put the girl on her guard. He had been interested in her from the moment he had realized she was using him as a means of piquing Bobby.

He was wondering now how far she was capable of going to achieve her ends, how available she was for adventure. And his appraisal was duly heightened by her behavior since they had left the inn.

Her furtive study of the floor of the car, her frequent glances at her feet had aroused his suspicions that she was up to something. Just what they were he did not guess—until the car broke down.

Meanwhile Ted Harker's shrewd ferreting of the breakdown led him near the solution. He raised the flood section where Peggy had been sitting, stuck an electric torch into the dark space beneath and inserted a careful hand.

"It's jammed," he remarked, "but there!" And he dragged out a small object. "Why, it's somebody's knife that slipped down the clutch-slot and gummed the works."

"It's my pen-knife!" Peggy's casual manner was an indifferent disguise. "However did it get there!"

"Well, however it did, it's bent something in the car's in'ards that will stick us here for an hour or so." And Ted dragged off his coat and set to work.

BERTON BRALEY'S DAILY POEM

INDEPENDENCE
BY BERTON BRALEY

Nobody can get gay with me.
I know my rights, and get 'em, too;
I ain't no slave—not me, I'm free
And just as good, by heck, as you!
When people tread upon my toes,
Why, me and them, we hit the mat—
None of their monkey-business goes.
I tell 'em where to get off at.

Where did I get this dark blue eye?
Well, I admit it's quite a sight,
But you should see the other guy!
He's in the hospital, all right!
I've averaged one fight a day,
I've broke an arm, a nose, a slat,
But just the same when folks get gay,
I tell 'em where to get off at.

A lot of ginks I've run across
Ain't got no spirit, not a bit,
They have a run-in with the boss
And always get the worst of it.
I've had two jobs, or maybe three,
Within a month, or less than that;
The bosses don't get brash with me—
I tell 'em where to get off at.

I'm independent, that's my style
(Er—say, my pocketbook is flat,
Lend me ten dollars for awhile)—
I tell 'em where to get off at!

CHICAGO SOCIETY HAS N. Y. ROMANCE MYSTERY

NEW YORK.—A romance that slipped into New York from Chicago on Monday and domiciled itself at the Ritz-Carlton has mysteriously departed. Whether or not a license to wed obtained at the Municipal building has been used is not known.

The principals are Miss Bertha Honore, 18 years old, niece of the late Mrs. Potter Palmer, whose estate at her death in 1918 was estimated at $25,000,000, and Warren Rupple, 45, a Chicago manufacturer and friend of Miss Honore's father, the late Judge Lockwood Honore, of Chicago.

Miss Honore and Mr. Ripple were accompanied to New York by Mrs. Lockwood Honore and Mrs. Samuel Insull, whose husband is interested in the electric light and gas companies of Chicago.

Miss Honore is a grand niece of President Grant and a cousin of Princess Cantacuzene.

THOUSANDS WITNESS THRILLING STUNTS AT FLYING CIRCUS

Phoebe Fairgrave, Aerial Dare-Devil, Main Attraction of Sunday Stunt Program

Doing acrobatic stunts on the wings of an aeroplane and dropping 1200 feet in a parachute may have lost their thrill for Miss Phoebe Fairgrave, young St. Paul girl who deserted her typewriting machine for a flying machine, but they certainly retain their thrill for the crowds. Thousands of persons flocked to the fair grounds Sunday afternoon to see Miss Fairgrave in her death defying performances at the Elks' Flying Circus, staged by the Federated Flyers, inc.

Walking on the wings was the easiest thing that she did during the exhibition. What held the crowd in breathless suspense was her daring in doing a hand-stand on the top wing of the plane in full flight, and again when she stood on top while the pilot of the plane looped the loop. There wasn't a part of the plane that she didn't explore during the exhibition. She climbed all over the machine, from the tips of the wings to the tail and down onto the running carriage and the wheels.

The spectators were literally "on their toes" when she prepared to make the parachute drop. Sighs of relief were audible when she let go and the parachute opened out. She dropped from an altitude of about 1200 hundred feet, and was carried by the wind to the circus ground's southeast of the fair grounds, where she made a successful landing.

Beside the aerial stunts, auto polo and motorcycle races furnished thrills and entertainment. It was the first occasion that most of the people of La Crosse have had to see the auto polo games. In spite of the heavy track, the motorcycle races were good. The five mile race was negotiated in 6 minutes, 33 seconds.

Athenians had no law against parricides, saying humans could never reach to that guilt.

CROPS MADE GOOD PROGRESS DURING JULY IS REPORT

General Weather Conditions Over United States Favorable to Healthy Progress

CORN RATHER SLOW IN STATE BECAUSE OF COOL WEATHER

Small Grains and Other Crops Doing Well

Reports this week again show healthy progress in most crops. Weather conditions taken as a whole, have been exceedingly favorable for the development of practically all crops. With the exception of a little too much moisture in the southeastern parts of the country, and a more or less serious dryness in the far northwest, the weather has been very seasonable. While there were no exceedingly high temperatures recorded in most of the states, on the other hand, no very low temperatures were reached in even the northernmost states. Some states in the north central group complain of weather being a little too cool for corn, but nevertheless, this crop is reported as looking better than usual at this time of year.

The northeastern part of the country that has been very wet for the past four or five weeks, has enjoyed dryer weather, which has been very favorable to the cutting of hay.

Wheat Harvest Ready

Much of the wheat of the country, particularly in the eastern half, is harvested, or just ready for harvest. Threshing is keeping pace with the harvest. In the more northerly and westerly states the wheat harvest will be on in full swing within the next week or ten days, although there are many isolated localities that have already cut their small grain. Threshing machine reports on oats confirm this crop to be very light. Wheat yields are very uneven, ranging all the way from five to 50 bushels per acre.

Tobacco in the producing states, is generally good and much of it is already being cured. Sweet potatoes in the producing states, range all the way from 70 per cent to very good. The cotton situation has also improved in the past week, owing to the fact that the weather has not been so favorable to the boll weevils. The major crops of the state of Texas, are made, with the exception of cotton, and this is reported as uniformly good. The white potato crop promises to be a large one, and the damage done to this crop in the New England states, by exceedingly wet weather is very problematical and can only be determined at digging time. A little blight is reported in the Dakotas as affecting the late potato crop.

Fruit Good

Fruit crops continue to be very promising, esperially on apples, peaches and grapes. There is not much disease among live-stock and favorable forage conditions in most sections make this industry very good.

This week again the country at large is in a good, healthy agricultural condition.

In Wisconsin

MADISON, Wis.—With the exception of corn, crops made good progress during the last half of July, according to the crop reporting service at Madison. Temperatures too low for corn. Plenty of moisture. Small grains filling well but curing of hay crops difficult.

Corn has made little progress during the past weeks, but has a good stand and good color. With ample moisture already in the ground, several weeks of warm weather will still insure a good crop, though crop will be late. Corn root worms doing some damage.

Winter wheat is in shock. Straw short but yield of grain good. Spring wheat is filling well. Reports of rust here and there but less than last year. Oats in southern counties over half cut, with short straw but heavy well filled grain. In northern counties in excellent condition; filling well. Weather unusually favorable for maturing. Barley practically all cut with a fair to good yield. Some rust damage. Rye practically all in stack. Yielded generally slightly above average.

Hay crops heavy, but cured with difficulty because of frequent showers. Some rail-spoiled in swath. Second crop clover headed with prospects of a good crop. Second cutting alfalfa about finished. Sudan grass poor to fair. New seeding fair to excellent, depending on locality. Marsh hay being cut with about an average yield.

Potatoes continue in excellent condition. Beet less numerous but fairly well controlled. No appreciable damage from hoppers. Early potatoes well set. Late in blossom.

Tobacco making slow progress. Some wildfire damage. Stand poor to excellent, average about good.

Cabbage slow in growth, but heading well. Onions good. Late canning peas benefited by cool weather; harvest under way. Door county cherry crop double last year's. Apple prospect continues about average.

Live stock declined somewhat due to seasonal annoyance of flies. A large acreage of clover will be left for seed with prospect of a good yield.

Toad Needs Little Water

The horned toad, rather than the camel, should be the prohibitionists' emblem, says the Popular Science Monthly. That this animal can live for 119 days not only without water, but in an absolutely dry atmosphere has been demonstrated by Prof. F. C. Hall of the University of Wisconsin.

Gold Practically Everywhere

Gold, the aristocrat of metals, is found to some extent in every part of the world, from near the equator in Africa, Peru and Borneo to the frozen ground of Alaska, Finland and Siberia.

OFFICIAL REGULATIONS FOR METHOD OF CONTROL OF TOBACCO WILDFIRE

Tobacco wildfire, an insidious disease which attacks the tobacco plant, has been discovered in the state and unless immediately checked, threatens to imperil the entire tobacco crop of the state. So serious is the menace considered by the Wisconsin department of agriculture that experts have been assigned to the task of evolving the best method of exterminating the disease.

The following regulations, prescribed by the Wisconsin department of agriculture under the authority of section 1494-1 to 1494-101 of the statutes apply to all farms on which the disease known as tobacco wildfire (bacterium tobacco) occurs and have the force and effect of law.

They were adopted in principle by a meeting of sixty tobacco growers of the town of Burke and vicinity on July 5, 1922, and were reviewed and formulated in detail by the following committee appointed to represent the growers in co-operation with the department:

GUNDER FELLAND, Chairman.
ALBERT LARSON,
AUGUST C. HOLSCHER,
CARL SACHTJEN,
HERMAN LOTHE.

These regulations have been approved by the representatives of the agricultural experiment station and the United States department of agriculture. Their purpose is to prevent the further distribution of tobacco wildfire and aid in the eradication of the disease from Wisconsin.

Immediate Action

1. All plant beds on affected farms shall be destroyed without delay, preferably by burning the plants before plowing under. All covers of 1922 plant beds shall be boiled two hours; and all lumber used in the seed bed frames shall be burned or sterilized as follows:

Scrub thoroughly with a 1-500 solution of bichloride of mercury. Proceed systematically so that all surfaces which may be contaminated are exposed to the action of the solution. This may be done with a mop or broom. Allow this solution to act for from one to two hours and then clean well with water. Bichloride of mercury is a powerful poison to man and animals and subsequent removal by thorough washing and flushing is necessary.

2. All plants showing infection in the bud and all infected leaves of other plants are to be taken off the field, and destroyed as soon as discovered. The entire field should be inspected every three or four days and removal of leaves and plants showing wildfire spots should take place immediately.

3. All fields showing fifty per cent or more of plants infected in the bud are to be destroyed entire.

4. All persons except owners and necessary workers are to be kept out of infected fields.

Measures to Protect 1923 Crops

5. Fields infected in 1922 shall be plowed within ten days after harvest, or before the suckers get a good start.

6. No tobacco seed shall be grown on infected farms, and seed from uninfected areas or seed sterilized under supervision shall be used for the 1923 crop.

7. On all infected farms the seed and fields in 1923 shall be located on land not planted to tobacco in 1922.

8. Only new or sterilized covers and lumber shall be used for 1923 seed beds.

9. Rubbish in the sheds from 1922 crop must be burned and the stalks must not be applied to 1923 tobacco fields.

10. No plant shall be set out in 1923 from seed beds in the infection area until after they shall be examined and passed by inspectors of the department of agriculture.

These regulations shall take effect immediately.

Commissioner of Agriculture.
S. B. FRACKER, State Entomologist.
Approved: Gunder Felland, chairman; Albert Larson, Herman Lothe, August C. Holscher, Carl Sachtjen, committee.

CONSCIENCE FUND IS ENLARGED BY RETURNED PRIZE

Iowa Farmer Returns Money Received as Premium Twelve Years Ago

Twelve years ago an Iowa hog breeder exhibited a litter of pigs at the State Fair and received premium awards amounting to about $70. This week Secretary Oliver E. Remey received a letter from the exhibitor in which was a check for $80.13 and a statement of the reason for the remittance.

"This phenomenon of conscience is not unique," Mr. Remey said when he read the letter and ascertained that the instrument of money transmission was genuine, "but it is seldom that it occurs in the Fair business. I think it indicates a most desirable advance in morals of the people."

The letter is as follows:

"Dear Sir: In 1910 I showed a litter of pigs in the Chester White classes at Milwaukee that were farrowed in August, 1909, as under-a-year pigs. I knew others were not showing straight at various fairs and was tempted to do likewise.

"I always did regret having done this, but in order to get peace with God I find I must make this right. I am therefore enclosing draft for $80.13 which is the amount of our winnings on this litter, plus 6 per cent., which you will place to the credit of the proper department.

"I find it don't matter what others may say about us; if they praise us when we don't deserve it or condemn us when we are not to blame. But it does matter if we know we are right in the sight of God."

The money went into the state's "conscience fund."

A SPELLING LESSON

Once upon a time there was a stubborn student who refused to learn to spell.

But always the teacher pleaded with the student and often said:

"You will suffer some great inconvenience, if not actual tragedy, some time, by reason of this refusal of yours to study orthography!"

Yet still the student was obdurate, and said "blah."

One day, after the obdurate student had grown to manhood, he poisoned himself eating oysters in "orgust."

And when the teacher, who had now grown old and toothless teach orthograph, heard this, she said:

"Uh, huh! I told him so!"—From Life.

CORRECTION

Correction of error made in Washington Cow Testing association March report:

Due to confusion in changing system of running association, there was an error made in writing the article or report for the papers on high and second high herd averages.

The March report in the newspaper gave the Guernsey herd of V. Anderson high herd average and the Holstein herd of Nick Arenz second high herd average.

The report should have given the Holstein herd of Nick Arenz first high average and the Guernsey herd of Victor Anderson second high average for the month of March.

WORLD WHEAT CROP PROSPECTS IN 1922

According to estimates communicated to the International Institute of Agriculture by the Governments of a group of Countries representing about one half of the Northern Hemisphere wheat crops, their yield in 1922 is 39.5 million metric tons (exclusive of Russia.) Compared with the production of the same group of countries in 1921 (36.9 million tons) there is an increase of 7 percent. This increase is entirely due to the large crop in British India, which surpassed that of 1921 by 3.3 million tons.

The United States the forecast is for a wheat crop slightly superior (by 3 percent) to the previous harvest (22.2 million tons as compared with 21.6 in 1921.)

On the other hand, the European estimates of production are decidedly below those of 1921 as regards the few countries which have furnished data, Belgium, Bulgaria, Spain, Finland, Greece, Hungary and Poland give an aggregate of 7.2 million tons in 1922 against their returns of 8.2 million in 1921.

The information to hand from these countries not yet ready to furnish estimates may be summarised as follows: The June rains have somewhat improved conditions for the wheat crop in France, Italy and Czechoslovakia, while the position is fairly good in Bulgaria, Rumania and Serbs-Crat-Slovene State.

The condition of the Canadian wheat crop is reported as generally favorable, apart from some injury by strong winds and hailstorms.

JERSEY BREEDERS ENJOY PICNIC AT ONALASKA TUESDAY

La Crosse County Jersey Breeders' Association Meets for Outing and Business

TALKS GIVEN BY AGRICULTURAL EXPERTS ON IMPORTANT TOPICS

Cow Testing, T. B. Tests and Advertising Urged

Joseph G. Green of Bangor was elected president of the La Crosse county Jersey Breeders Association at the business meeting which was held following the picnic on the county agricultural school grounds at Onalaska last Tuesday afternoon. Ernest Skogen of Holmen was elected vice-president of the association and M. F. McNown of Onalaska secretary-treasurer.

The following were named to the board of directors at the meeting: Paul R. Sheppler, Rockland; F. P. Markie, La Crosse; Math Knutson, West Salem; Adolph Johnson, Midway; Walter Opshedahl, Holmen; Oscar Lee, Holmen; Abner Smith; Holmen; Enos Streeton, Bangor; Edwin Young La Crosse.

About thirty members of the association, with their wives and families attended the picnic at the school grounds. A picnic dinner was served at noon, after which the party examined the stock on the agricultural school farm.

Following a pleasing vocal solo by Frances Hammond several addresses of interest to Jersey breeders were made. L. C. Hatch, principal of the agricultural school spoke on the "Future of Dairying." In his talk he reviewed the evils which are present in the dairying industry today, and pointed out methods of combating these evils. W. E. Spreiter, county agricultural agent, spoke on the value of cow testing, and urged every farmer who owns a herd to join some association. G. C. Bergeront, county agent of Jackson county, spoke on the value and necessity of advertising herds and breeds of cattle. Talking about a herd to a neighbor and exhibiting at fairs and stock shows he said were the best possible means of advertising. J. E. Hill, state secretary of the Jersey Breeders Association in his talk emphasized the value of cow testing association work, advertising and T. B. area tests. All of the speakers expanded on the value of the area test for tuberculosis.

WASHINGTON COW TESTING REPORT

The association held a meeting July 26 at the North Ridge school house to consider buying feed in carload lots. Eighty tons of bran and twenty tons of oilmeal was ordered. It was also decided to have a picnic outing to be held in Myrick park August 13.

SUBSTITUTES NOT USED BY FARMERS

But five farmers of the 3,517 who belong in the 127 cow testing associations of the state use butter substitutes when good butter may be obtained at 35 to 40 cents a pound. This is the announcement of A. J. Cramer, state leader of cow testing associations at the Badger College of Agriculture.

Other interesting facts presented in his June report are:

Some 3,517 members are testing 61,489 cows.

About 63 per cent of the herds are T. B. tested.

Clark county is the Banner county in the U. S. with nine associations.

Seven associations have every herd free from T.B.

A big drive is being made by Mr. Cramer and his loyal force of testers to drive the scrub and grade bulls out of every one of the cow testing herds by Labor Day, September 1, 1922.

GIRLS' SUMMER SHORT COURSE CLOSES AT ONALASKA SCHOOL AFTER WEEK'S WORK AND PLAY

These are the 31 La Crosse county girls who attended the recent short course at the County School of Agriculture at Onalaska.

The short course which is given annually for the girls of La Crosse county at the County Agricultural School at Onalaska closed Friday, July 28th, after one of the most successful weeks it has enjoyed since its inauguration. Besides its educational and recreational value, the course makes for wider acquaintance among the girls, a thing which will prove valuable in the future.

This is the third year that the course has been offered by the school and has proven to be a very popular, enjoyable and profitable course. The girls live at the school for the week and are continually in charge of refined and competent instructors. The course opened Monday, July 24th, at which time 21 girls from all parts of the county came to the school prepared for the week's stay. The following daily routine was observed during the week:

6:30—First rising bell.
6:45—Second rising bell.
7:15—Breakfast.
8:15—Classes.
10:25-10:35—Intermission.
10:35—Classes.
12:45—Dinner.
1:30-2:30—Sewing.
2:30—Rest hour.
3:00—Recreation.
5:00—Preparation for supper.
6:00—Supper.
7:00—Music and games.
8:30—First retiring call.
9:00—Lights out.

The girls expressed themselves as being highly pleased with the instruction which they received and were unanimous in declaring that they had enjoyed a wonderfully good time during the entire week. The cost for the week was $2.50 per student.

The requirements in sewing were that each girl should make a dress suitable for school wear for herself. This work was under the very efficient leadership of Miss Olive Cook of La Crosse. In cooking the girls were required to prepare all the meals in which they received very able instruction under the leadership of Miss Felecitas Kelly of La Crosse. Miss Ellen Teare of the Domestic Economy department of the school, had general supervision of the work.

Following is the daily program for the week:

Monday P. M.—Registration; settling dormitory; shrink dress material; press. Evening—Assembly.

Tuesday A. M.—Classes. P. M.—Visit spinning mills. Evening—Play games.

Wednesday A. M.—Classes. P. M.—Extra sewing period. Talk by Mrs. Nellie Kedzie Jones. Evening—Picnic supper on school grounds. Movies.

Thursday A. M.—Classes. P. M.—Extra sewing period. Visit sanitarium and Agricultural School grounds. Evening—Assembly out of doors.

Friday A. M.—Classes. P. M.—Auto ride to places of interest in and around La Crosse. Visit Tri-State ice-cream factory. Evening—Party.

WEST SALEM BOYS IN CORN GROWING CONTEST IN STATE

Six West Salem high school boys have pitted their skill in growing corn against the best growers in Wisconsin. These boys — Gordon Clark, George Brueggeman, Henry Rhodes, Elor Meyer, Daniel Shane, and Earl Rhyne—are each conducting projects of at least two acres of corn as a part of their work in the West Salem high school. Under the management of the Wisconsin Experiment Association, anyone in the state may complete in a contest to secure the greatest yield from a two-acre patch, and these boys have their hats in the ring with high hopes for one of the prizes, which range from a bushel of seed-corn up to $25 in cash. La Crosse County ranks high in fame as a producer of corn and seed grains, and with the boys backing up the veteran growers there is no limit to her possibilities.

Practically every West Salem boy with a patch of corn will be represented in a corn-club of ten-ear samples, at the State Fair this fall. This booth will probably be made up entirely of West Salem corn, raised by the boys themselves, and will compete with all the other corn clubs in the state in the Boys' and Girls' department.

Boys and girls who have the opportunity should get busy now, while grain is being harvested, to get some good sheaf samples for the county fair and for the grain show at the high school next winter. There will be classes in these shows for all kinds of grain in sheaf and threshed samples, and for exhibits of forage crops. Suggestions for selecting and preserving these samples can be secured from H. M. Kuckuk, instructor in agriculture, at the West Salem high school.

REACHED HIS DESTINATION

The steep stairway called "Breakneck Steps," connecting the upper and lower towns of Quebec, has been the scene, according to old inhabitants, of incidents both tragic and ludicrous. One approaches this stairway (even with its Twentieth century improvements) in tight-lipped apprehension, writes a recent visitor to the French-Canadian city. But in the old days, at the height of its dangerous career, to reach the bottom without accident was an achievement.

The tale is still being told of the gentleman who tripped on the second step, fell, but slid to safety, bearing on his back a lady, who at his tripping had also tripped and in her plight clutched the gentleman's knotted tippet. At the bottom of the stairway the gentleman politely doffed his hat and said:

"Pardon me, madame, but this is as far as I go!"

WORK OF PUTTING FAIR GROUNDS IN SHAPE UNDER WAY

Grounds Extended and New Fencing Going Up; Advertising Campaign Launched

Workmen are busily engaged in putting the fair grounds into shape for the big Inter-State Fair which will be held in La Crosse for four days beginning September 18th. One of the most noticeable improvements which is being made is the extension of the grounds to include the triangular piece formed by the Campbell road, the Green Bay tracks and the south fence of the fair grounds. This space, while belonging to the fair grounds, has for some time been used as a storage place for telephone poles. The sheds along the west side of the grounds have been extended to the Campbell road, and a wire fence built along the road. It is now possible for people to look directly into the fair grounds on crossing the Green Bay tracks. Gates will be installed in this new section for the accommodation of pedestrians, while the old gate will be used exclusively for vehicles.

Another improvement is the doing away of the old board fence around the grounds, and substituting of new seven foot wire fence. When the work of putting up the new section of fence is completed, there will be wire fence along three sides of the grounds.

Posters and banners adverrising the fair in La Crosse are now being put up in all towns and counties, both in Wisconsin and Minnesota, within a radius of 75 miles of La Crosse. A crew of men with cars is engaged in the work of putting up the advertising matter.

MAKING FRIENDS

Muskogee, Okla., lacked community spirit until one spring an athletic man suggested a neighborhood tennis court. Several other men who had thought for some time that the community needed some common interest, offered to share the expense. A site was chosen, the ground cleared and rolled, the court laid out and benches for onlookers built. Now, the court, besides being a playground for tennis lovers, has become the evening gathering place for the families of the neighborhood. Instead of each staying aloof on its front porch, the families sit on the benches or the grass and chat and sing. So successful has the venture been that the neighborhood is planning to add a croquet ground for those who consider tennis too strenuous but who take delight in the new community spirit.—Delineator.

VERNON COUNTY IS FAMED FOR RECORD OF ACHIEVEMENTS

Many Fine Crops Raised in Fertile District; Was First Called Bad Ax County

COUNTY IS SECOND IN STATE IN TOBACCO; NINTH WITH CATTLE

Hog Raising Nets Big Profits for Farmers in 1920

Between the valley of the beautiful Kickapoo and the broad Mississippi, where Indians roamed in their hunting ground paradise for countless ages, the white man finally settled in the spring of 1844. The first settlements were made at Sterling Mounds, Bad Ax, Brookville and Springville. Always a very fertile spot, the territory now known as Vernon county was at first labelled The Bad Ax county from the river that runs through it. Eleven years later the freshness of vegetation and great fertility of the soil had won for it the name of Vernon, meaning "greenness." From its first settlement Vernon county developed rapidly.

Grains First

Grains were the first crop of the county, but the progressive farmers were quick to see the disadvantages of soil destroyers. In 1857, the Bad Ax Agricultural society was organized and chartered. A cattle exhibition was staged in connection with its meeting in the fall of that year. With that as a foundation Vernon county developed along agricultural lines.

The county is somwehat handicapped in quantity competition with other counties, because of its relative smaller size, but even then it rings in as the second tobacco county of the state, producing 12,205,829 pounds in 1920. A very high grade of tobacco is produced. As a dairy county it ranks ninth in the state, with 40,473 contented cows munching its rich blue grass, timothy and clover. Of these 1,830 are pure breds. The total milk production for 1920 was 1,834,194 pounds. Its pastures feed 13,478 beef cattle, in the production of which it ranks fifth in the state. Other crops in which the county ranks high are hay, oats, corn, barley, and wheat.

Hogs

The county fed nearly 42,000 hogs on its pasture crops and corn in 1920, yielding a handsome profit to the deserving farmer.

Many farmers have gone in for pedigreed seed grain and indications point to the fact that with a running start they will soon be rivalling their northern neighbors.

Considerable maple sugar is produced in the county, and a large quantity of high quality fruit is exported annually.

Interest to Tourists

Two places in the county are of special interest to tourists. The majestic monument rock rises above the plain a few miles south of Viroqua. Near the junction of the Bad Ax with the Mississippi is the spot where Black Hawk was finally brought to bay after retreating from the memorable battle of Wisconsin Heights.

The county agricultural committee consists of William Dolen, Westby; Charles Moore, Viroqua; Sam Lake, Viroqua; John Lapke, Chaseburg; and George Sanford, Viroqua; with E. W. Schelling as county agent directing the agricultural campaign.

HOLMEN TESTING CLUB JULY REPORT

PRAISES POLICY OF PLACING WOMEN IN IMPORTANT POSTS

Practice Should be Carried Out Still Further Declares Wife of Governor

SOUTH WAYNE, Wis.—That the policy of placing women on important boards and commissions, adopted by progressive administrations, should be carried to further extent was the policy advocated by Mrs. John J. Blaine, wife of the governor, in an address here Monday. With Mrs. Robert M. La Follette a campaign tour is being made of counties in Southern Wisconsin.

"Suffrage has come as the result of national amendment," said Mrs. Blaine, "and the Wisconsin legislature had never, probably because of this early sowing of the seed of progressive principles, of being the first state in the union to add the amendment. And it was fitting and proper that the father of Miss Jeanette, who had worked in season and out of season with his daughter and others for suffrage through all the years, was chosen to carry the official message to Washington to notify the federal government of Wisconsin's first acceptance.

"I call your attention to these things for two reasons; first, I want you to realize that woman's suffrage was progressive doctrine advocated by men when others scorned and scoffed at social heresy even before suffrage, wherever progressives have been in charge of state governments, they have inaugurated the policy of placing women in responsible governing positions. When Senator La Follette was governor of Wisconsin women were placed on the boards of regents of the university and normal schools, a woman was placed on the board of control, which looks after the charitable and penal institutions of the state, and women were appointed as factory inspectors to look after the girls and boys in employment in the factories.

"During the past two years, this policy has been adhered to. There are now two women on the board of university regents, instead of one; two women on the county school board, and in other towns are women factory inspectors; women truancy agent deputies; women probation officers; women acting as court probation officers; women acting as aids to the unfortunate blind in the state institutions of the state. In short the old patronizing philosophy in the management of this state has been refined and that motherly spirit has saved much dear time and money through teaching the good laws of health and care of children. Our board of health has placed a woman physician with wide experience in child welfare work in charge of the child welfare work in all the institutions of the state, where female physicians have heretofore been employed.

"I feel proud of the government we have established among these states of progressive fellowship and well. If a progressive administration is returned to office there will be more women in office and the indications are that the coming session of the legislature will find the first women in its membership.

"Suffrage for women carries with it serious responsibilities. It is of the utmost importance that the women in the various states of the land use their right to vote. You may be sure the women of Wisconsin will go to the polls to record their intelligent appreciation of the fine new Rolls-Royce machines. They have a car on the farms and the women of the world go classes now? Vote. If women are going to be a benefit to mankind, don't forget that. Your husbands and your working men friends that you are only casting half a vote if you do not take your women folks to the polls with you."

GIRL TAKES POISON BECAUSE LOVER PAID ATTENTION TO RIVAL

Bertha Bearce, Formerly of Racine, Takes Life in Chicago in Fit of Jealousy

CHICAGO, Ill.—In a jealous rage because the man with whom she was living was paying attention to another girl, Bertha Bearce, 19, said by her sister, Mrs. Bessie Holmes, to have come from Racine, Wis., followed the death of Lucie in that same place, Sunday night, a large quantity of poison which resulted in her death soon afterward.

She had been living in a flat with Harold Vesper, a taxi driver.

Previously a letter to Vesper with Andrew Lee as other couple that Bert the woman, and in a fit of jealousy ended the quarrel. According to Andrew, who is being held, she was also despondent because their life together had caused her to lose a "good boy friend," said to be a wealthy manufacturer. The "good friend" was not found by the police and admitted knowing the girl. She worked for him at one time, he declared, and last Christmas he took her to his home for dinner.

Brief notes of the girl's love affairs were found in a diary in the flat. They began with January 2, 1922, and in explaining terms enumerated the days with whom she had been out on certain nights and the places they visited.

The girl's sister said she had not seen her for several weeks.

AVERTING OF STRIKE OF SEAMEN TO HELP GET COAL FOR STATE

Most of Wisconsin's Supply Brought into State by Lake Steamers

MADISON, Wis.—Averting of the vesselmen's strike on the Great Lakes by intervention of government officials will have an indirect bearing upon the coal situation in Wisconsin, it was said today by a member of the railroad commission.

As it is at present, Wisconsin is experiencing great difficulty in getting coal into Wisconsin by rail. The majority of coal docks on the shores of Lakes Michigan and Superior are supplied with coal brought by boat. While there has been a decided falling off of the number of boats, hauling coal to the docks this year compared with last, and the averting of the strike is looked upon with significance. Practically all of the coal in Wisconsin docks has already been sold or contracted for, it was said.

Coal cars enroute from the mine are being held up for practically two months due to the rail strike, while in normal times, coal from Virginia Kentucky mines can reach Wisconsin in approximately three weeks.

From ten to twelve million tons of coal is consumed in Wisconsin yearly, it was said. Wisconsin farmers, especially those in the northern sections of the state, have been called upon by the fuel administration to lay in quantities of wood to help alleviate the coal shortage.

Public Debate

THE OTHER SIDE

Editor, La Crosse Tribune:

The "Public Debate" article in yesterday's tribune was on the whole written in such good spirit that it was a pleasure to read it as compared with most of what has appeared of an anti-prohibition character. The reference to the vast army of hypocrites and bigots in the prohibition ranks was one of those unfortunate lapses in the paper which ought not to be repeated for it only indicates bad temper and gets nobody anywhere. But now as to the points that were fairly discussed:

The polls that have been and are now being taken are an interesting form of propaganda and perfectly legitimate but they do not prove very much. In Chicago there are about one million voters, a poll of 25,000 was four to one wet, but what about the other 1,525,000 of the population of Chicago? And suppose Chicago is wet, as perhaps it is, what of Illinois and the other forty-seven states of the union?

No reasonable man should kid himself with the idea that the eighteenth amendment was suddenly put over by a small active minority when no one was looking. No other amendment ever had such long consideration as to its real merits and none was ever passed with such a great majority.

If that vote can be changed the saloon can be brought back, otherwise not. That much is settled. But no one objects to the wine and beer people trying to change the law so long as their efforts are lawful. But do not call as days hypocrites and do not violate the law that has been regularly passed by large majorities everywhere.

Now as to this 2¾ per cent beer proposition. Everybody knows that is but the camel's nose. Chief Justice Taft has killed that hope before it was born. He says that for police purposes any such distinction as that between brewed and distilled liquors and hence any legislation to permit wine and beer would be to make a laughing stock of the amendment. It simply will not be done, or if done it will speedily be declared unconstitutional by the supreme court. We depend on such opinions as Mr. Taft's for that.

But think of the thing as it is: doubtless 2¾ per cent beer would seem very mild to the steady drinker, it wouldn't affect him at all. In fact it wouldn't satisfy him at all. But it would make young boys and girls drunk. So what we should come to would be a schedule of alcoholic strength for each separate class. Of course one-half of one per cent is not intoxicating, that is exactly the intention of the Volstead law and of the amendment which the law applies. It was not intended to provide that we should about hit the average or come as near to it as possible and fail. It was intended that the whole thing should go, that is the law and that is what prohibition stands for.

Take the auto laws and ordinances, they are not made for careful drivers but for everybody. We might drive autos without headlights, or taillights, might park right or left, park without lights, etc., and not everybody would be wrecked or killed. But we do not say that careful drivers may go without lights, park on the left side and cut short corners while drunk, children and new beginners must keep the rules; no, the law is the same for everybody and is drawn to make accidents not simply less in number but impossible.

The argument about the decline of the near-beer business would seem to prove the opposite of what the writers declare. That is, instead of showing that the use of stronger drinks is increasing, it would seem to show that people are having the good sense to see that the whole business might just as well be given up. For not only is the real near-beer on the decline but the home brew is declining as well. The sales of the home brew supplies by the stores has about come to an end.

The moonshiners still shine but not with a very brilliant light. On the train the other day two strangers to me were talking. One said, "In Philadelphia we can get it at the drug stores yet without much trouble." The other said, "In Milwaukee we can get it with a physician's prescription." A business is not very flourishing when each transaction means an act of perjury by a physician. The supply of such physicians is not enough to go around.

That men are put out of employment is surely to be regretted. Probably I shall be called a hypocrite for saying so, but it is only fair to add that every labor saving device that was ever invented from the steam engine down to now put men out of employment for the time being. But later everybody profited by the new devices that had come into use.

President Harding said that in twenty-five years the saloon would be only a memory. That will be a grand and glorious day and no one will profit by it more than the families of the men who once thought that the making and selling of alcoholic liquors was necessary to their daily living.

E. C. DIXON.

"See America first," didactically quoted the professor. "I have already done so," replied J. Fuller Gloom. "I was born here.—Judge.

Davis, president of the E. M. Davis Chemical company of New York, and Alexander W. Phillips, associated with Davis.

Do you know that eleven railroad presidents draw more salary than the president of the United States, a total of $865,571.06; an average of $78,701.97, or $52.00 per hour for a four hour day? Do you know that twelve other railroad officials and attorneys draw salaries amounting to $670,960, an average of $55,960 per year?

Do you know that forty-eight railroad officials and attorneys draw a total of $1,586,150 per annum, an average of $33,044 per year, and do you know that the grand total of the annual salaries of these seventy-one railroad officials and attorneys is $3,022,901.06?

Do you know that 23,000 individuals, families and estates own and control one hundred and twenty billion dollars, or one-third of the national wealth?

Page 26, U. S. R. R. labor board decision (dissenting opinion) reads: "The rates of pay established under this decision are not based upon the human needs of the hundreds of thousands of families involved. They are insufficient to provide these families with the absolute essentials. The earnings of this large group of railroad workers will not provide the father of a family with as much food as is allowed convicts in the Cook county, Illinois, jail."

Can you blame the shop crafts for refusing to accept decisions that are so unfair and unjust? The shop craft employes have accepted decision after decision which were unjust. Did the railroads do this? No! No! Eighty-two railroads accepted only decisions that suited them and you do not read of these railroads as outlaws in the daily press.

Help the railroad workers maintain a living wage.

Railroad men drew on an average of $1,600.00 last year.

RETURNING PROSPERITY MERELY RETARDED FOR TIME BY LABOR TROUBLES REPORTS U. S. BOARD

WASHINGTON.— While the "retarding effect of labor difficulties on industry" is said to be shown in department of commerce figures recently received for the month of June, "these disturbances do not seem to have affected the deeper under-current of returning prosperity," said the statement issued Monday.

"Production in many industries has been slowed down by the annoyances," the statement added, "but there is a general feeling that early settlement will be reached and that business will continue to gain in volume."

The department's wholesale price index showed advance of two points for the month, reaching 150 as compared with 142 a year ago, practically all commodities sharing the advance, although slight declines in farm products and general commodities were noted. The bureau of labor statistics' cost of living figures for the quarter "showed no substantial change."

FOUR DROWNED WHEN BOAT IS OVERTURNED AT RACINE PICNIC

Heroic Work of Lifeguards Prevents Greater Loss of Life in Sunday Accident

RACINE, Wis.—Coast guards were Monday continuing the search for the bodies of the four victims of the accidental overturning of a scow containing a group of picnickers at Brown's lake, twenty-five miles west of here, Sunday afternoon.

Fourteen persons, mostly children were on the scow at the time of the accident, all of them being thrown in the water. Heroic work by the coast guards, detailed to the picnic for such an emergency, prevented a greater list of casualties.

The dead:

Jeanette Rogers, 15; Celeneze Rocque, 16; Jeannette Nelsen, 12; and William Fall, 42.

The scow was being towed about the lake by a motorized rowboat driven by Fall. He leaped to the rescue but was dragged down by the other victims who frantically clung to him. His two childer were among those rescued.

The picnic was the annual outing of the Knights of Pythias of Racine.

Resume Conferences

WASHINGTON, D. C.—By The Associated Press.—Conferences between President Harding and leaders of the striking railway shop employes designed to bring an end to the strike were resumed Monday at the White House.

B. M. Jewell, general leader of the strikers, accompanied by J. P. Noonan, head of the Electrical Workers' union, and William H. Johnston, president of the Machinists' association, arrived at the White House shortly before noon, and were immediately ushered into the president's office.

Grable to Washington

CHICAGO, Ill.—E. F. Grable, head of the maintenance of way men, departed at noon Monday for Washington to attend a conference of leaders of union men not on strike called for the purpose of discussing the general situation of the shop crafts strike and petitioning President Harding for an audience.

The union chiefs' meeting, President Grable said, probably will be held at noon Tuesday. In all likelihood, he said, an attempt will be made to secure a conference with President Harding in the afternoon.

The union leaders, President Grable said, wish to protest to President Harding against the condition of locomotives and equipment which they believe to be unsafe and dangerous. Alleged assaults upon union men not on strike by armed guards at railroad shops in all parts of the country also will be related to the president, President Grable said.

"Our big grievances," said President Grable, "are the railroads' demands upon men not on strike to perform strikers' duties and the general and highly dangerous condition of all equipment. These subjects will first be discussed in the conference of union leaders and then taken up with President Harding.

Disorders Reported

CHICAGO, Ill.—By The Associated Press.—Chicago appeared to be in the doldrums of the rail strike awaiting developments during the absence from home of the leading figures in the shopmen's walkout.

B. M. Jewell, head of the railway employes' department of the American Federation of Labor with other strike leaders, was in Washington expecting to resume discussions with President Harding.

Ben Hooper, chairman of the United States railroad labor board, was within easy call while spending a short vacation at Michigan City, Ind.

Scattered incidents of disorder marked the early part of the sixth week of the shopmen's strike. A passenger train on the Western of Alabama, enroute from Atlanta to Montgomery was fired on by alleged strike sympathizers, according to reports from Montgomery. No persons were injured.

W. S. McLanna, car foreman, in the Illinois Central shops at Birmingham, Ala, was kidnapped by armed men and badly beaten with hickory sticks.

Women Arrested

Eight men, said to be striking Burlington railroad shop workers, and the wives of two of them, were arrested by federal officers on charges of violating injunctions prohibiting interference with men at work in the railroad shops at Havelock, Neb.

State authorities in Tennessee were investigating a fire of supposed incendiary origin which destroyed the freight station of the Louisville and Nashville railroad and twenty cars in the Knoxville yards. The loss was estimated at $500,000.

Striking shopmen assisted in clearing the tracks following the Missouri Pacific wreck at Sulphur Springs, Mo., where many persons were killed and injured. The strikers, however, refused to pick up wrecked cars.

Chicago units of the Illinois National guard, on strike duty in the Chicago and Alton shops at Bloomington, Ill., will be relieved soon by other troops now at Camp Grant, according to an announcement by Adjutant General Black.

Rioting in Joliet

JOLIET, Ill.—Special Agent Philip Reitz of the Elgin, Joliet & Eastern railroad and an unknown striker are dead and Sheriff James Newkirk is seriously wounded as a result of riots which broke out here Monday morning at the railroad yards.

The sheriff's office called for state troops after it was decided that local authorities were unable to cope with the situation, according to an announcement by Chief Sheriff Deputy Lindgren.

A mob of several hundred gathered at the railroad yards early in the morning. The trouble is believed to have started over the shooting of a striker last Saturday.

What started the shooting could not be learned immediately. Sheriff Newkirk, who has been searching the strike pickets daily for arms, usually went unarmed himself.

Sought to Disperse Mob

According to available information the sheriff and deputies on their regular morning rounds, found 500 men congregated near the home of Fred Nelson, a carpenter who has been working during the strike, and it is believed attempted to arrest several of the men in the front rows who were reluctant to leave. A shot rang out which pierced Reitz's heart killing him instantly. Several more shots were fired which seriously wounded the sheriff. Reitz's and Newkirk's revolvers were not discharged.

Following an investigation by the sheriff's office it was announced that the unidentified dead man, an Italian, started the shooting by killing Reitz and wounded the sheriff.

Walter Stockard, another special agent of the railroad, then killed the Italian.

LEWIS HOPEFUL OF PEACE SOON IN COAL STRIKE

Meanwhile, the conference was expected to mark time until Wednesday, but the operators here had agreed to the proposal made by union officials, to ask other operators to join the conference.

While only a minority of the operators in the central competitive field had reached here today to attend the conference, both they and the union officials seemed confident that practically all the Illinois and Indiana operators would agree to participate in the conference by Wednesday. A big majority of the Ohio operators were already here, as also some representing western Pennsylvania. These states comprise the central field.

To Supply Northwest?

WASHINGTON.—Plans for coal movement to the northwest to supply that section with its winter fuel stocks were under consideration Monday by the federal central coal committee.

The committee was said by officials to contemplate inauguration of a weekly movement of coal by way of the coal and ore exchange of Cleveland, starting with shipments aggregating about 30,000 tons daily, or more than 200,000 tons a week, and increasing the allocation to that section as rapidly as possible until about one million tons are moved to the lakes weekly.

Regional committees appointed last week by Fuel Administrator Spencer now are on duty in the producing mine fields, officials declared and orders for coal from railroads, public utilities and states are being forwarded them from the central distribution office.

Appeal to Harding

MADISON, Wis.—Passage of a resolution Saturday by the Wisconsin fuel committee, to be presented at Governor J. A. O. Preus' northwest coal conference in St. Paul August 10, "petitioning the president of the United States either to obtain the immediate resumption of coal mining and railroad activities under their private management or to exercise the powers of the president to operate these industries through public agencies," was the outstanding feature of the committee's work since appointment by Governor Blaine.

A Nature Lesson

Marion is an observing child. Recently the family motored into the country and was caught in a rainstorm. While waiting for the rain to stop, the family, safe in the sedan, was watching horses in a field nearby.

"Isn't it funny," Marion observed, "when it rains the animals always turn in the opposite direction." And friends of animals will agree that most of them, at least horses, do not face a storm, but turn in the opposite direction.—West Salem Nonpareil-Journal.

CHICAGO, Ill.—By The Associated Press.—A slugging onslaught led by Wally Pipp, gave the Yankees an 11-6 victory in the first game of the series with Detroit.

Joe Bush chalked up his eighteenth triumph, Babe Ruth walloped out his twentieth homer, and the Hugmen obtained revenge for Pillette's two victories over them at the Polo grounds recently by driving Ty Cobb's young hurling star from the box in two innings.

Sisler collected three hits and narrowed to two points the gap separating him from Cobb in the race for the American league batting lead.

Jess Barnes skyrocketed in the tenth inning and the Chicago Cubs scored eight runs, winning 10 to 3 and cutting the Giants' lead over the Cardinals to two points.

Cincinnati hammered Grimes out of the box and beat Brooklyn six to three, in the only other National league game played.

Speaker's homer tied the count in the eighth and the Indians pushed over the decided run against Boston in the twelfth inning, 6 to 2. Courtney struck out five of the Athletics in the first three innings, but then weakened and Chicago lost, 5 to 1.

A CASE WHERE TEARS SYMBOLIZE GLADNESS

Tears sometimes symbolize sadness, sometimes gladness. To little Florence Egan they were shed in a moment of sadness. This strange statement, paradoxical as it is, will probably bear explaining.

It was Mary Pickford who made Florence Egan cry. And it was the first time in her life that "America's Sweetheart" ever made a child shed tears. She felt so badly about it, did Little Mary, that she, too cried.

The tears, however, were quite necessary—that is, the little girl's tears. A sad scene was being made for "Little Lord Fountleroy," which is to be presented at the Majestic today and Tuesday.

Florence Egan playing the part of a little, oppressed tenant on the conscienceless old Earl of Dorincourt's estate, just simply had to cry. Everybody tried to make her cry—especially Jack Pickford and Alfred E. Green, who were directing. But it was no use.

Then in stepped Little Mary just like the heroine in a movie play at the psychological moment, and told Florence Egan a story. It was about a little girl who had lost her daddy; about the hardship and suffering this caused. And Florence Egan cried, not for one scene but for three.

But sadness quickly gave way to gladness, for Miss Pickford gave the child a beautiful hand-embroidered dress with real lace on it.

"THE FATAL HOUR," A REAL TRIUMPH ON THE SCREEN

Thrill after thrill swept through the large audience that witnessed "The Fatal Hour" yesterday at the Casino Theatre. This Metro all-star production is a unique and arresting play.

"The Fatal Hour" narrates the struggles of Nigel Villiers to recover his title and estate, of which he has been deprived by two schemers, a burlesque actress and a gentleman adventurer. The high points revolve around a secret mission to Switzerland, the robbery of crown jewels, an abduction in a motor car, and a death struggle near the edge of a precipice at the Casino today.

STRAND TODAY

"The stuff dreams are made of" gets into photoplaying, stage entertainments and real life, but it is pleasanter to see somebody else awake from a bad dream than to undergo the personal experience. So it is that showgoers may approach the Strand today when Norma Talmadge sets forth the outcome of a dream without having any particular shock to their sensibilities. Eugene O'Brien is the leading man.

RIVOLI TODAY

Dorothy Dalton as a blonde! And Wanda Hawley, another blonde, as her sister, with John Davidson, dark, exotic villain of "Fool's Paradise," to stir up trouble! These are the elements of drama, of which there is plenty in "The Woman Who Walked Alone," the George Melford Paramount production which opened last night at the Rivoli theatre.

This picture is one which carries you from London drawing rooms to the South African veldt, and involves the central character, Iris Channeys, in a succession of dramatic situations. It is a role which will go down as one of Miss Dalton's most appealing portrayals.

Milton Sills is excellent as the leading man.

RIVIERA TODAY

"What do you think she'd do if I kissed her?" asks one of the men in "A Woman of No Importance," by Oscar Wilde.

"Either marry you, strike you across the face—or both," responds the other character.

The man thereupon kisses her. And she—well, she strikes him across the face with her glove.

Of course if you have read the play you will remember that the man richly deserved to be struck across the face. But whether you have read or seen the play or not, you simply must see the picture which comes to the Riviera theatre today.

It is rare that one sees such an engrossing film as this same "Woman of No Importance." From first to last it grips you tight, and at the end you are thankful that the Selznicks have brought this famous Oscar Wilde play to the screen.

Here is a cast that acts, really acts. In the title role, Fay Compton, the beautiful and gifted English actress, does a most enviable piece of work.

Hardly less impressive is the acting of Milton Rosmer as the man in the case.

"A VIRGINIA COURTSHIP" COMING TO THE RIVOLI

The latest Realart production with May McAvoy "A Virginia Courtship" which comes to the Rivoli, Tuesday and Wednesday is a bit of life in the Old Dominion, with the beautiful star in the role of a tomboyish youngster who refuses to wear stockings, but later grows up and falls in love with her guardian's nephew when he comes home from college.

In the highly emotional scenes of her capture by the bootlegger ruffian, she is completely convincing. The surrounding cast is of the best.

Casson Ferguson is leading man, and Kathlyn Williams combines sympathy and queenly charm in the part of Constance. Others are Alec B. Francis, Richard Tucker, Jane Keckley, L. M. Wells, Guy Oliver and Vern Winters.

WAR LAW IN EFFECT TO CURB ACTIVITIES OF ITALIAN FASCISTI

ROME.—Military rule has been extended to the provinces of Ancona, Parma and Leghorn, where in the last few days there has been sanguinary fighting between the extreme nationalists and the communists.

Pope Pius has expressed his deep distress at the increasing hatred between the opposing factions which moves the people "further away from the teaching of the Divine Master."

The only remedy, he said, is a return to religion. The ordained clergy will be instructed to "impress the faithful with the necessity to pray for the restoration of faith and piety which alone can bring peace and love among men."

The government has prohibited the movement throughout Italy of all lorries, these being the chief means of transportation used by the fascisti to organize their punitive expedition, being able in this manner to travel quickly and secretly. The order took effect at midnight.

FIVE ORDERS FOR COAL PRIORITY ARE ISSUED BY STATE

MADISON, Wis.—Five priority orders have been issued by the fuel committee to date since the issuing of priority orders was authorized by the federal fuel administration.

The Wisconsin Public Service company, Green Bay, was allowed three cars of gas coal daily, the cars being distributed to Green Bay, Oshkosh, and Sheboygan. Four cars of steam coal daily were allowed the service company's plant in Manitowoc.

The Wisconsin Power and Heat company was allowed sufficient cars of coal to supply framers in Baraboo and Berlin. The total amount consumed by these two districts is approximately 100 tons weekly.

The Eastern Wisconsin Electric company was given three cars daily by the commission to run its steam electric plant.

One car each was sent to Waterloo and Arlington.

Seeing the Brighter Side

Persistent endeavor to look on the brighter side of things will soon destroy the habit of magnifying the evils of life. What is more to the point, it will aid us in combating evil more successfully, thus destroying the fear that the world is going to the devil.

HIBERNIANS DEPLORE SITUATION EXISTING IN IRELAND TODAY

Resolutions also Adopted Opposing Activities of Ku Klux Klan

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—Resolutions deploring the situation in Ireland and opposing the Ku Klux Klan were adopted by the national board of the Ancient Order of Hibernians in conference here.

The Irish resolution spoke of the "unhappy division of the Irish people" and suggested that members of the order "refrain from obtruding our opinions and criticisms lest the harsh discord be transmitted to our side of the ocean."

The other resolution declared that the "Ku Klux Klan challenge to our Catholic citizenship should be opposed by aggressive, intellectual power," and urged organization of all Irish American Catholics.

NEW RECORDS MADE

Stocks at New High Mark, But Gains in Many Issues Are Cancelled in Later Trading

NEW YORK—The market strengthened substantially on restricted trading during the morning at Monday's session, but towards noon profit-taking set in, Mexican Petroleum and Studebaker cancelling their early gains and other active issues selling slightly below their highest prices. A number of additional new high records for the year were made, however, in the first two hours, notably by Chicago and Northwestern, Pere Marquette, Great Northern preferred, California Packing, May Department Stores, Sears-Roebuck, Montgomery Ward and International Harvester, which were up one to nearly four points. Exceptional strength was shown by Chain Store issues, Kresge and Woolworth advancing seven and eight points respectively. Rails continued in good demand at gains of one to two points, with similar advances being registered by some of the popular public utilities, including Philadelphia county, North American, Detroit Edison and People's Gas. Call money opened at 3½ per cent.

Wall street continued to be optimistic over the coal and rail strikes, opening prices on the New York stock exchange moving upward in relatively light dealings. Rails were again the favorites, Union Pacific leading this group with a gain of one point. St. Louis and San Francisco, Wheeling and Lake Erie preferred, New Haven, Southern Railway and St. Paul, all bettered their Saturday closing quotations. Oils were irregular, Associated Oil, Mexican Petroleum and Mexican Seaboard making moderate gains, while Sinclair and General Asphalt receded slightly. New highs for the year were recorded by Brooklyn Edison Electric, Corn Products and Postum Cereal, all at fractional advances. Kresge was the outstanding specialty, gaining one point.

The feature of the last hour was the demand for equipments which were up one to two points. President Harding's new strike settlement plan, which became known before the market closed, apparently was received with favor, rail shares either holding or extending their early gains. The closing was strong. Sales approximated 600,000shares.

WHEAT MARKET BEARISH

Prices Show Tendency Toward Lower Levels in Monday Trading

CHICAGO, Ill.—Wheat showed a tendency to decline in price Monday during the early dealings. Liberal receipts here, 325 carloads, had a bearish influence, and hedging sales found the market without adequate buying support until new low record prices for the season were reached in the December and May deliveries. A holiday at Liverpool, interfering with export business acted as a further weight on the market. The opening which varied from unchanged figures to ⅞c lower, with September $1.06⅝ to $1.06⅞ and December $1.06¼ to $1.06⅞, was followed by a moderate general setback.

Gossip that the international conference starting Monday might do quick toward evolving credits for the purchase of food-stuffs, led to slight rallies later. The close was unsettled, ⅛c to 1⅜c net lower, with September $1.05⅝ to $1.05¾ and December $1.06⅝ to $1.06¾.

Crops estimates which were construed as bearish, led to weakness to values in corn and oats. After opening ¼ to ½c lower, September 61¼ to 61⅜c, the corn market continued to sag.

Subsequently a decrease of nearly 6,000,000 bushels in the visible simply total tended to check selling, the close was steady, ¼ to ⅜c to ⅞ to 1c net lower, with September 60⅝ to 60¾c.

Oats started ⅛ to ⅜c lower, September 32⅝ to 32¾c, and held at about the initial range.

Provisions were depressed in line with grain and hogs.

CERTIFICATES OF INJURY READY FOR DISABLED VETERANS

Document Necessary in Order to Make Claim for Compensation

The last call is being issued to the disabled veterans throughout the country to apply for a certificate of injury. This must be obtained prior to August 9, 1922.

Any persons who may have sustained an injury or disease in the service likely to result in death or disability are entitled to a certificate of injury, and it is absolutely necessary that such a certificate be secured if compensation should be payable for any disability resulting from such injury.

It is not necessary for a man to make any formal application or to file a claim for compensation at this time. Each ex-service man should write to the director, United States Veterans' bureau, Washington, D. C., and state his name, rank, organization, date of enlistment and discharge and the circumstances under which the disease or injury which he sustained occurred. He will in return receive the certificate bearing his name, rank, organization, date of separation from service, the nature of the evidence accepted as proof of the existence of the disability and a diagnosis or description of the disease or injury in question.

Ex-service men should bear in mind that it is absolutely necessary to secure this certificate of injury in order that they may make claims at some later date for compensation.

The word paradise does not occur in the authorized version of the old testament.

MORGAN OPPOSED TO REACTIONARY AS WELL AS AGAINST RADICAL

Has No More Use for One Who Would Use Government for Own Uses than "Bolshevik"

VIROQUA, Wis.—Claiming that he is as much opposed to the reactionary as the radical, William J. Morgan gave his views on the subject in an address here Saturday night.

"I have no more use," said Mr. Morgan, "for the reactionary who would use the government for his own selfish purposes, than I have for the radical, who would tear down our constitutional government and replace it by a soviet system.

"I notice some newspapers have criticized me for saying that I was against the reactionary. Well, I want to tell you the truth. I am. And I am against him just as strong as I am against the radical, who wants to destroy our constitutional form of government. Some of the radicals are calling themselves progressive republicans, or La Follette progressives, but you can tell them by what they advocate, and a radical is not a progressive."

CHICAGO HANGING TO STRAPS AGAIN AFTER SIX DAYS' WALKING

Agreement Reached by Union Chiefs and Employers Ratified and Cars Operate Again

CHICAGO, Ill.—Chicago car riders greeted restoration of normal transportation with joy Monday after six days' experience without cars on the surface and elevated lines. Thousands were happy to hang on a strap again. Car men who went out on strike last Monday accepted a wage reduction of ten cents an hour and retained the eight-hour day and former working conditions.

The first cars to move since the strike were manned by their crews and taken over their routes Sunday night, following ratification of the agreement reached by union leaders and company officials.

JOHN C. BURNS IS HOST TO NEWSIES AT BOY SCOUT CAMP

The Tribune's carrier boys were entertained at the Boy Scout camp at Hunter's bridge Sunday through the courtesy of John C. Burns, who furnished the food and transportation for the whole party.

The boys had a rousing good time at the camp, and after a strenous afternoon spent in rambling in the woods, swimming and partaking of a good "feed," were brought back to the city, tired out, but jubilant over the good time they had had.

John Burns was voted a "reg'lar feller" by the bunch.

PAULSEN IN ATTACK ON GOVERNOR OVER INCOME TAX RETURN

Charges Blaine With Making Political Capital Out of State Law

GREEN BAY Wis—Governor John J. Blaine was charged by Martin Paulsen, ex-soldier candidate for secretary of state, with making political capital out of the state income tax law which provides only for the governor and tax commission to know the facts concerning income tax returns, in an address here Sunday.

Mr. Paulsen reviewed the refusal of the last regular session to pass a bill giving unlimited publicity to state income tax returns; the governor's insistency in calling a special session; the passage of a law providing for a six year audit, the passage of a bill providing for all officials, state or local, in any way charged with the enforcement of the income tax returns to inspect all income tax returns and then added:

"This was certainly a step in the right direction, but the governor evidently did not wish any of these officials to have any inside knowledge of the income tax returns, for he vetoed the bill.

"By his veto of this bill he has made it easier for corporations and individuals to defraud the state. So henceforth if income taxes are illegally withheld, Mr. Blaine will be in a large measure responsible because public officials charged with law enforcement cannot persecute tax evaders unless they have the necessary information." Mr. Paulsen said.

PRIMARY CAMPAIGN INTEREST NEARING BOILING POINT AS ELECTION DATE APPROACHES

MADISON, Wis.—With the candidates for public office in Wisconsin and the United States senate already in the last month of their campaign before the primary election, September 5, the political situation will again be sent to a boiling point as evidenced by the itinerary mapped out for the candidates and their campaigners.

W. A. Ganfield, republican candidate, has been drawing immense crowds through the northern part of the state, it is said. Much interest is being displayed in his candidacy by the voters who are flocking to his meetings.

La Follette Resumes Campaign

Senator La Follette, who had an attack of laryngitis following an intensive campaign in the lake shore counties, remained at his home in Madison last week taking throat treatments. He will start on an active campaign Monday, August 7, with adresses in Waukesha and Oconomowoc. Tuesday the senator will make his promised return to Milwaukee, where he will speak in the evening. Preceding his evening address the senator will make an address in Whitewater.

But one address will be made on Thursday, that being in Racine in the evening. Friday, August 11, the senator will visit Lake Geneva and Delavan, closing his week's campaign with an afternoon address in Beloit and an evening address in Janesville Saturday.

Blaine Has Busy Week

Governor John J. Blaine, who has been absent from his office for the last two weeks, was scheduled to make five addresses in Waushara county Monday. The towns of Plainfield, Hancock, Coloma, Wild Rose and Wautoma, the county seat, were to be visited in the order named. On Tuesday his itinerary called for a trip into Marquette county with a schedule of five addresses, Neshkoro, Princeton, Montello, Packwaukee and Westfield were on his schedule. On Wednesday the governor planned to visit Adams and Juneau counties with campaign speeches in Adams, Arkdale, Necedah, New Lisbon and Mauston, winding up with an address on Thursday to Camp Douglas where the cavalry headquarters troops from Madison are stationed for two weeks' training.

Women Draw Big Crowds

Great interest is being evinced in the campaign being waged by Mrs. Robert M. La Follette and Mrs. John J. Blaine, wives of Wisconsin senior senator and governor; who opened their campaign in support of the La Follette-Blaine ticket August 3.

The two women campaigners who have been traveling together, have been drawing large audiences according to headquarters here. Their schedule starting Monday calls for addresses in Lamont, Argyle, New Glarus, Monticello and Monroe, in Lafayette and Green counties. Tuesday they will visit their home county, making adresses in Black Earth and Mt. Horeb, Dane county. Wednesday they will visit Sauk City, Prairie du Sac and Baraboo, in Sauk county. On Thursday Mrs. La Follette will start a three-day tour alone, visiting Wyocena, Pardeeville and Portage. Friday addresses will be made in Rio, Doylestown, Fall Creek and Columbus in Columbia county, ending her tour Saturday, August 12; with addresses in Jefferson county.

Attorney General William J. Morgan, candidate for governor, who has been on active campaign since August 2, will wind up his nine day tour Saturday.

Morgan's Itinerary

The attorney general will address a meeting at Tomah, Monroe county, Monday night. Tuesday he was scheduled for Bangor, West Salem and La Crosse, Wednesday in Galesville, Arcadia, Whitehall and Augusta, Thursday, August 10, with adresses in Stanley, Owen Greenwood, Neillsville and Black River Falls, Friday in Stoughton, Edgerton, Evansville, ending up Friday with a meeting in Janesville.

Saturday Mr. Morgan will wind up his tour with adresses in Brodhead, Beloit, Whitewater, and Delavan.

Baker in Northwest

John F. Baker, independent candidate for the republican nomination for attorney general, will start in Buffalo county Monday and tour up the western border of the state to Superior. His itinerary includes visits at the following places: Monday, August 7, Fountain City, Cochrane, Alma, Durand, Arkansas, Porcupine, Pepin, and Stockholm; Tuesday, August 8, Eau Claire, Downsville, Weston, Knapp, Glenwood City, Downing, Elk Mound, Rusk, Colfax, Boyceville, and Menominee; Wednesday, August 9, Elmwood, Spring Valley, Martell, Ellsworth, Beldenville, Prescott, and River Falls; Thursday, August 10, Hudson, Hammond, Baldwin, Roberts, Woodville, and New Richmond; Friday, August 11, Amery, Luck, Clear Lake, Balsam Lake, Milltown, Frederic, and St. Croix Falls; Saturday, Grantsburg, Webster and Superior.

Where Paulsen Speaks

Martin Paulsen, ex-soldier candidate for secretary of state, who during the past week has been flaying the governor of the state for his "indiscriminate pardoning" of criminals, starts this week's campaign with adresses Monday, August 7, in Manitowoc, Two Rivers and Sheboygan; Tuesday, August 8, Plymouth, West Bend, Cedarburg, and Port Washington; Wednesday, August 9, Milwaukee; Thursday, August 10, Pewaukee, Hartland, Oconomowoc, Waukesha; Friday, August 11, Racine, Kenosha; Saturday, August 12, Burlington, Whitewater, Delavan and Elkhorn.

DENVER, Col.—William E. Foster, alleged president of the "soviet Russia" society, was ordered out of Colorado by state rangers.
